Surveys:
Inquerito Ligeiro Junta as Familias 1991
This is a World Bank Priority Survey with a national coverage and a sample of 1631 households. No further documentation was found apart from a comment that there were some problems with the food expenditures in the survey.

Inquerito ao consumo e orcamentos familiars 1994
This is a survey classified as a budgetary survey by the World Bank and should at least in principle be more comprehensive than the 1991 survey. The sample covers 3300 households and the survey was carried out between August 1993 and August 1994. The data collection was done in 7 visits to the households. The questionnaires are rather extensive (in a language not completely understood by the reader) and looks to have a quite detailed coverage of consumption items. Self-consumption and in-kind items are clearly covered. Some items are asked for one month, some for 3 months and some for one year.
