Surveys:  Etude sur les conditions de vie des ménages 1994  This is a World Bank Priority Survey carried out by the Institut national de la Statistique et de la Démographie (INSD). The sampling was carried out with eight strata. The survey covers 8642 households that were visited once during the period October 1994 to January 1995. The consumption questionnaire is rather limited including 24 food items, some non-food items and questions on education, health, housing and utilities, transport and transfers. Purchased and self consumed items were asked about with a recall period of one month. The income questionnaire includes a quite detailed list of products sold by self-employed, earnings, rents, interests, dividends, transfers and other income. Income in-kind is not specifically asked about.

Enquête prioritaire 1998 and 2003

This is yet another World Bank Priority Survey carried out by the Institut national de la Statistique et de la Démographie (INSD). The survey covers 8500 households that were visited once during the period May 1998 to August 1999. It is not clear how much the sampling changed from the earlier survey but it is reported that the number of strata was 10. The questionnaire is very similar to the 1994 one with a bit more details on consumption (some food items added).
